The Tribune this morning published an address from the State Committee to the Liberal Republicans of New York State, inviting a dispassionate view of the situation, and reiterates the prominent parts of the Liberal platform. Defeat, it states, has not imperiled the Liberal party. Feeling that duty requires persistency, it calls upon the Liberal party to preserve its organization, nultiply its clubs, etc. New York, November 29.—Yesterday being holiday with the bull and bear fraternity of Wall Street, large numbers of them spent the day at the grounds of the Long Island Shooting Club near East New York, where the most sensational match ever witnessed took place between those crack pigeon shooters, G. L. Lorrillard and Howard S. Jeffrey of city. The parties shot a distance of forty yards, a longer distance than was ever shot before in this country. The conditions of the match were to shoot three quarter ounce shot at fifty single birds from five traps, English rules. It resulted in a tie, each gentleman securing twenty-two.

HORACE GREELBY.

Alarming State of His Health-His Present Condition.

The Sentinel this morning publishes the following extract from a private letter, evidently from a trustworthy source; also s special dispatch, which we append: "H. G. is really down very low; Mr. Sin

"H. G. is really down very low; Mr. Sinciair and his family are very nervous, and Mrs. Cleveland is plainly in distress. He (Mr. Greeley) really took Mrs. Greeley's death to heart beyond any anticipation. We all thought that the lingering nature of the disease and the constant separation of husband and wife, in the journeyings abroad, would reconcile him to the final deprivation but it seems not. Of course the result of the campaign grieved him, especially the efforts of —— who seemed to be inspired with a certain devilish malignity, and whom we all hope to see brought to a and whom we all hope to see brought to a stool of repentance in the end. I asked Mrs. Cleveland yesterday if her brother's mind was imperilled, as the morning papers assert. She, poor woman, is half distracted, and could not make a very coherent answer. Mr. Cleveland is not alarmed, and believes that Mr. Greelev will be at most Mr. Greeley will be at work in a short time The whole family are at Chappaqua, and whatever skillful and tender nursing can do, you may be sure will be done to bring the

you may be sure will be done to bring the old gentleman around. It is incredible that such a constitution can be broken down utterly, and I for one place no sort of reliance in the absurd stories of the papers. Reid should know if any one, and — asked him to-day. He said simply what I have indicated, that Mr. Greeley is ill, and suffering as much from loss of sleep as anything else, and that quiet and nursing of the right sort will bring him around. You would hardly believe, but they have been obliged to keep Mr. Greeley's whereabouts a secret, as the pestiferous reporters have been in a perfect frenzy of news hunting, and Mrs. Cleveland dreads them as hunting, and Mrs. Cleveland dreads them as she would a pack of ravening wolves. I will telegraph you if Mr. Greeley should grow worse, but at this writing—Tuesday mid-night, there is no alarm on the part of his friends—other than something unlooked [Special to the Sentinel.]

New York, November 28, 11:30 r. m.—The heavy gloom which has been hanging over the city all day on account of Mr. Greeley's dangerous illness is partially lifted to-night by official assurances that he is better. A special messenger from Chappaqua, who reached the Tribune office at 10:30 o'clock this evening, says that Mr. Greeley slept quietly and soundly from 7 o'clock last evening till 7 this morning. At that time he awoke, and after swallowing some beef tea he turned over and went to sleep again.

Throughout the day he has slept a good deal and to-night his friends are cherishing hopes of his ultimate recovery. The most favorable symptoms are that the beef tea remained on his stomach which has refused to retain any tood for several days, and that his voice which yesterday could not be raised above a faint whisper; can now be heard distinctly in adjoining rooms. He is sleeping quietly to-night, and, since refreshing sleep was the thing he has needed most, there is good ground to hope that the great journal-ist may be spared for many years' service in the field he has so highly honored.

DUELLING IN ARRANSAS.

The First Bloodshed at Little Rock. [George Alfred Townsend's Correspondence.]

An account of the first great Arkanes duel was published in Noah's Weekly Register. It happened in 1830. Robert Critten den, who was a Whig, canvassed the Terri den, who was a Whig, canvassed the Territory against Conway. Democrat. In the crude state of Arkansas society, it was felt that on the result of the experiment depended for a generation to come the political complexion of the State. The two opponents avoided each other, making different circuits; but the wolfish people demanded a debate, and it was finally appointed for Little Rock. The time was summer, the spot a pine groye. Before this time the partisans of the contestants had made the campaign infamous by abuse and personal accusation. People from the remotest parts of the Territory were present, and the capacity of inns and lodging houses was exceeded so that many wild people camped out in the surrounding woods.

Conway carried on the debate after the spirit

many wild people camped out in the surrounding woods.

Conway carried on the debate after the spirit in which it had proceeded, catering to the common tasts. Crittenden said, during his second speech, that no language was tolerable that could not be sustained by the Code of Honer. At this the inflamed Conway interrupted him with denunciation and invective, the Crittenden stopped the discussion, and sent the challenge the same evening. They met next morning in the presence of as many people as had listened to the discussion. Crittenden's second was Ben. Desha, of Kentucky; Conway's Colonel Whatton Rector. All arkansas might have been said to be assembled. A quarrel of an hour arose over the preliminaries, and Crittenden lay quiet on a blanket, while Conway exhibited himself. As they stood up to fight, Conway looked the swarthy Tennesseean, stern and premeditative; Crittenden, the fair-haired, spirited Kentuckian. Desha gave the word, loud as the proclamation of the law. Conway fired first, and cut a button from Crittenden's coat. The next minute he fell heavily to the ground, shot through the heart. Mr. Crittenden had set Arkansas an example.

Charles Sumner says that from his observations abroad he believes Thiers to be the right man in the right place. He had a long interview with Gambetta and other Legit mists, and thinks that the government is fixed on a stable basis. He parises the French people, and says Thiers delighted him. The Senator met a number of celebrities of England while in that country. His health has been improved. He says that $5,000 will been improved. He says that $5,000 will cover his losses by the Boston fire.

Congress will meet on Monday, and as there will probably be a quorum present in both Houses, the message will be delivered on that day.

EDWARD HARRIS, the largest woolen manufacturer in the country and the maker of the well-known "Harris casimeres," died at Providence, Rhode Island. on Sunday. Mr. Harris was one of the few Eastern manufacturers who thoroughly believed in free trade, and in the ability of America with improved machinery to compete successfully with the labor of Europe.

PENNSYLVANIA courts have recently made two decisions affecting the rights of railroad and telegraph companies. One decided that a railroad ticket was good either way between the points it included the rules of the company printed thereon to the contrary notwithstanding, and another declares telegraph companies liable for failure, either in the transmission o prompt delivery of messages, and allow no weight whatever to the excuse that the message may have been written on blanks containing printed denials of responsibility.

Mr. Greeley's condition is very seri ons, and although the latest advices are more favorable there are apprehensions that his sickness may terminate fatally The death of his wife has been a very se vere blow, which, added to the anxietie and excitements of the political contes and his loss of rest from watching with her, have told upon him fearfuly. We earnestly hope Mr. Greeley's health may be completely restored. The country ca not afford to lose him. It needs his pow erful, discriminating work in the perio through which it is about to pass.

THE most stupendous fraud that ha been perpetrated for many years is the diamond discovery in Arizona. Hundre of persons have been induced by the glowing reports to risk their lives an money in searching through the wilds this desert country for precious stones. A full report from Clarence King, the State Geologist of California, who has visited the "diamond regions" twice shows the swindle. The region has been carefully "salted." That is stones of different kinds, generally in the case of diamond those with flaws and comparatively worth less, have been distributed in different places and then "discovered." Beyond specimens of quartz and garnets of ne value there seems to be nothing at all like prescious stones in the whole Territory The scheme seems to have been concocted in England, but as the principal actors in it are in this country it is to be hoped tha some law can be made to take hold o

WE expect to hear some day that some enterprising Yankee has filed a claim before Congress for depredations committed on the Massachusetts Bay Colony or the Rhode Island Plantations by the Indiana in the years of grace before 1700. Or that some shrewd white man has purchased from their descendants a claim of Massa soit's for corn furnished the Puritan set tlers, or for damages arising from the death of King Philip and that "your per titioner humbly prays" Congress to pay him the full amount with interest to date The manner in which claims are present ed to Congress and lobbied through or pected to pay for trumped up cases of every sort, is certainly reason to believe that sooner or later we shall be called on to pay for everything that was ever bough or destroyed since the Mayflower landed at Plymouth or John Smith settled a Jamestown. The next thing for which pressure will be made to bear upon Congress will be what are known as the French Spoliation Claims," amounting to about eleven millions of dollars. Purdue University. The Trustees of the State Agricultural College, misnamed "University," and worse misnamed by a prefix that appropriates its existence and usefulness to a single individual, want the Legislature to give them $100,000 to complete the buildings which have been commenced and will need $167,000 by next midsummer. They say that the proceeds of the Congressional donation producé an income of but $15,000 in gold, and $1,200 in currency, or about $18,000 in currency altogether, and the other resources of the institution, exclusive of the one million acres of land which they expect to get by a bill now pending in Congress, yield but little, if anything. They can't go on with the buildings, which they want to have ready for the reception of pupils by next summer, without more money than they know how to get unless the Legislature will help them. Purdue University may prove to be a good school, but the people of the State have lost interest in it since it passed so largely into the hands of the eccentric and meddlesome old gentleman who fastened his name to it as a condition of giving it $150,000. No one feels now as f it were a State concern, or as if the people had anything to do with it. Mr. Pur due is the owner, manager and will prove to be, when it is put in operation, the Faculty, Bursar, and "all hands." His lonation was the dictate of egotism not of enevolence, and he cultivates the power gives him as sedulously, and uses it as insparingly as any other man uses what e expects to benefit by. He is not conent with being a Trustee, he must be all he Trustees at once. He is not content o take his share in the action of the Board, he must dictate it all, and if he an't he resists it. He "bothered" the ocation of the buildings till those who eard of the matter half wished that the whole affair was safely off the State's ands, or that he had kept his donation n his pocket. He is no doubt a well neaning man, but he can't understand hat anything means well that don't mean recisely what he does. We believe that he College would be better off, in a better osition for usefulness, if his donation and ts foolish condition had never been acepted. We don't allude to the location ear Lafayette. That is good enough, and better would be hard to find. We refer ally to the power the donation has put nto the hands of a superannuated, medlling egotist to place his own whims where wiser work is needed. If the pendng Congressional donation shall be made. and thus furnish abundant endowment ndependent of private help, the regret hat the institution has been appropriated entirely in name, and largely in management by one man, and he not a miracle of

The appropriation asked for is a large one, and it is not clear that the object is worth it. The State has over $300,000 in he partnership now, while the partner whose name fills the whole sign and stamps the whole affair, has but the half fit. It looks to us as if the State had lone enough to fasten a factitious immorclity to the very perishable name of Mr. John Purdue. To make her capital n the concern $400,000, by adding $100, 00 to what she had, and still leaving it as early as possible at his sole control, is ne of those conditions sometimes desig nated as "too much pork for a shilling. Mr. Purdue's gift, it seems, is given in anaual installments, and the amount so far paid seems to be-barren of proceeds. The rustees don't speak of any addition to heir income from that source. The brifty and far off imitator of Mr. Peaody possibly hopes, by hanging on to all f his donation he can, to make enough of t, before it leaves him, to cover a good art of the deficiency it will make in his xchequer when it goes. It certainly ears such a suggestion about it, and nothng that we ever heard of Mr. Purdue's haracter for eager and unquestioning beevolence contradicts it. We do not supose the State's appropriation would be at ill misused, so far as its application by the ther Trustees is concerned, but how nuch the proprietary Trustee would vaste in some impracticable caprice, no ne can guess. If he took a notion to nake a cow house of the upper story, and ave the cattle driven down stairs to pasure, he would have it if it took the whole 100,000. That he has managed his own milding well is nothing to the purpose, ecause interest put a check on whim. It s different when it comes to spending the noney of the State, in a work of which e knows no more than he knows of the olleges of Chinese Mandarins, or the contruction of a tubular bridge. The deand is a little heavy, considering the and that will have most to do in disposhave the College completed and set to sidewalks. ork as soon as possible, but as the case tands now the State has done enough or Mr. Purdue's glory, and if he wants hore he has means enough to get it. He as made the institution too wholly his wn affair to allow anybody else to care nuch what becomes of it, so long as the longressional endowment is not lost.

That portion of the Territory, least known and the most remote from civilization is the northeastern part, and her culated as to the discoveries can be easily told, but not so easily and authoritively de-

The sands about the headwaters of the Litthe Colorado River are believed to be respleudent with diamonds in the rough and already cut. Bouche's Fork is also believed to rival the Australian fields. Tonto Creek and the Tonto basin are scintillating with precious stones; every stream which is sup-posed to exist about the great Colorado pla-teau, the Black Mesa, or beyond the Mogol-lon and White and Pinal Mountains, bears the same burden of richness. But the trouble is, that the region mentioned has never been visited by the persons who seem to know of every canon, mountain and val-ley, and the uncollected settings of diadems only exist in the imaginations of the quon-dam discoverers. The name of Diamond into the Colorado River, is also used as a catch by which to cheat the credulous, but the region about is barren and almost inac-cessible, and the existence of fine specimens of clear quartz, and not the presence of diamonds, gave it its gemlike name. The only authentic discovery of diamonds in Arizona was that of a stone found by a riously whether Seward ever said that he had a little bell that he could ring and send a soldier in the Tonto basin several years ago, man instantly, at the touch of the bell, to Fort Lafayette or Fort Warren.

BLACKMAILING.

The way the Bus ness is Carried on in New York. [Correspondence of the Boston Journal]

Strenuours efforts have been made to get of Ludlow Street Jail, but so far without suc bail the women. Besides the suit on which they are arrested, there are seven or eight suits ready to be served if these parties get bail in the present case. There are libel suits; suits for blackmail; suits in the State Courts, as well as in the United States Court, and the result of bail, if it could be obtained, would not free the women from durance vile. While Mr. Beecher's friends have nothing to do with the arrest of Mrs Woodhull and her sister, there are outside parties who are determined to have this matter probed to the bottom. Over thirty gentlemen have received letters demanding money on the threat of attack in the public prints. Some have paid money to avoid an unwelcome publicity. Others have said, "Go ahead," while one gentleman who was "Go ahead," while one gentleman who was visited in his office by a woman, arose from his seat, took her by the collar, led her to the head of the stairs and told ever darkened his doors again he would fling her down the stairs if he broke every bone in her body. Challis is determined to carry this matter through the courts, both on the civil and criminal side of the bench.

The extent of this business in New York is perfectly marvellous. It is carried on mainly by women, with a man in the back ground. A shrewd lawyer is retained, and the business is often carried on under legal advice. The most adroit arts are resorted to, and reputable men are often taken in, and, finding themselves in a bad muss, pay money to escape. A gentleman was starting from the street, not long since, for his home in upper New York. As he was entering his carriage a woman approached him, well dressed, modest in appearance, and apparantly in distress. She was a stranger—had come down to meet a friend—he had not come down to meet a friend—he had hot come-would the gentleman be kind enough to tell her the way to the street named—naming he one in which the banker lived—was nev-er in New York betore—did not know what he should do—wringing her hands in agony. The gentleman offered her a seat in his car riage, and left her at the desired point. The next day, in the rush of business, a lad came in and said a lady wished to speak to the in and said a lady wished to speak to the gentleman, in her carriage. On going out, he discovered the identical woman whom he had aided the day before. She wanted $1,000, and if she did not receive it down town, she should call for it at his house some evening. The report is that the merchant was bled to the tune of $3,000, when he thought it was time to hand the case over to the authorities, and the whole affair will have an airing in due time.

Mr. Comstock is a young New York merchant who is destined to have his name somewhat widely known. He has been engaged for over a year in seising vile literature and bringing men engaged in the trade to trial, and often to the penitentiary. He has been doing this work at his own cost, and for a time without much sympathy. He was the complainant on whose affidavit the Woodhull party were arrested and are still held in jail. He proposes to have this whole matter thoroughly sifted. He has letters and proofs of a system of blackmailing that are perfectly astounding, which shows to what an alarming extent this work is carried. It is known that for over a year Mr. Beecher has been in receipt of blackmailing letters, to which, of course, he paid no attention. I am told by a gentleman who has means of knowing, that the vile article in the Woodhull paper was sent to Mr. Beecher before it was published.

Amusement Matters.

Rosedale was reproduced for matinee and evening at the Academy yesterday, and drew very fine audiences. Of Mr. Barrett's "Elliott Gray" no criticism is needed, for he has studied it to perfection, and there are no flaws to pick. To-night, for his benefit Hamlet has been selected; in which, as the melancholy Dane, Mr. B. is pronounced ex cellent. Mr. W. H. Leake has kindly consented to aid in this play, and will personate the Ghost.

McEvoy's Hibernicon drew a good house at Masonic Hall, last night. How It was observed in Our City.

The epizootic interfered with the universel thanksgiving customary in November of each year, per notification from the Governor and the cook, but still the larger per tent, of Indianapolis's population yesterdes attended church, staid at home, or went viciting, and "biled turkey and stuffin" suffered to about the usual extent Considerate remembrance by the "Boss" sent more than one employe home Thanksgiving Eve with a fine large fowl, and more than one pater families and put asunder."

its result as reason of thanksgiving. He then spoke of the rapid development of the country. Our railroads are branching out everywhere. It is but a little time since the iron horse plowed a furrow through the rocky Mountains, and woke the wild beast sleeping in his lair with the voice of his neighing—the spiese have returned and enriched our eastern boards with the grapes of Eachol. The sound of the golden hammer which riveted the iron bands connecting our Eastern and Pacific States in wedlock had scarcely lost its echo when another sound is heard: the Amen of this great nation saying, "What God hath joined together let no man put asunder." g. & Branch Office, 50 William St., New York. fowl, and more than one pater familias and put asunder." mater familias, and curly-headed youngster and severally fessied upon the fruits of

> was the feasting of some hundred and more that edifice, and though some may question that to not a few of the little ragamuffins and unfortunates woolen shirts and pegged shoes, knit socks and warm jackets would have been more acceptable, still the motive actuating these good young people should not be questioned. Their guests seemed perfectly content, and showed no lack of facility in providing room for a square meal of uustinted proportions. After the dinner short talks were made to them by Hon. A. G. Porter, Rev. Mr. Bayliss, Rev. F. C. Holday and Col. John W. Ray, in a strain that commanded the attention of a majority, and then the lads were dismissed with a benediction and a handful of nuts.

A majority of the congregations of the city observed the day with religious exercises in the morning or evening. Those of the several Methodist churches met at Roberts Park, and listened to a sermon by Rev. Mr. Snyder, from the text, (Psalm 117,) "O praise the Lord, all ye nations; praise him, all ye people; for his merciful kindness is great towards us." The Congregational and Presbyterian people met at the First Presbyterian, where Rev. J. L. Bennett preached from the text, Numbers 14, 7,) "It is an exceeding good land." Rev. S. Cornelius, of the Garden Church, delivered a sermon at the First Baptist to a large congregaegation; taking as a basis, Psalms 126, 3: "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

The Olivet Presbyterian United with the Ames M. E. congregation and were edified by a sermon from Rev. Mr. Brandt. There were also services at Grace and Meridian Street Churches, and last evening at the Seventh Presbyterian, where a sermon was delivered by Rev. Isaac W. Montfort, District Secretary American Tract Society. Below is presented a brief abstract of his sermon:

Text — Matthew, 22d chapter, 21st verse: Render unto God the things that are God's.

The speaker opened by saying there are two governments over man, the divine and the human To these we owe allegiance. The Saviour taught this by precept and example. Many valuable historic proofs were brought forward to show that ours is a Chris-tian government, that the land was taken possession of in the name of Christianity, and the cross, its symbol, planted upon the soil upon its discovery. That the fathers of the land and constitution were Christian men, fearing God, and that the civilization they brought hither was bible civilization. The speaker said it is a matter of thanksgiving on of in the name of Christianity, and that ours is a bible civilization; it is not the civilization of art or of science and philosophy, but of the word of God reaching the heart and directing the life. The vitalizing element of American civilization is Christianity. It is its soul, its life-power, its energy, ts germinal idea. The bible is a light reach ing the heart—a power directing the life.

"Might is right," says the code of the barbarian. "Do unto others as ye would that there as ye would that others as ye would that others as ye would that others as ye would that anto you," says Bible civilization. The book of the False Prophet opens the barem. Bible of the False Prophet opens the harem. Bible evilization gives us a view of Eden, with Eve queen in the nuptial bower without a rival. The speaker then represented the press and pulpit as sentinels of freedom. Of he press he said, bind the press and you have chained down the mightiest defence of our free metitutions. It is an act of arbitrary power—it becomes the despot and agrees with monarchy. In this land the people have a right to know. The fundamental idea here is Democracy—the daemos vs arka—the people in contradistinction to the chiefs. This freedom of the press must not, however, degenerate into licentiousness. An editor should not lose his manhood and and be carried along by party, as the barnable attaches itself to the ship and makes the voyage of the ocean without volition.

We would like to give in full all that was

We would like to give in full all that was aid in regard to the responsibilities of the pulpit, but have noted but a part. If what has been said in regard to American civiliza-ton being a Bible civilization be true, then he pulpit holds a near relation to the life of he nation and the minister of Christ bears a neavy responsibility in watching over and tuarding, according to his measure of abilty cuarding, according to his measure of ability and within his sphere, those requirements of tivine law which the State accepts and which are its beauty and life. The minister of Jesus Christ can never become a partian; he must commend the good and condemn the bad; he can not adhere to all that may be done by party. But here are times when he should speak; when a warning voice should be raised. When the demagogue, by strategy, takes possession of the primary council or nominating convention and robs the unsuspecting of their rights; when wealth controls the ballot-box: vention and robs the unsuspecting of their tights; when wealth controls the ballot-box; when parties are so lost to shame that proflicates and debauchees become representatives; when bacchanalian revelry is heard in our legislative halls; when a great Comnonwealth becomes a partner in the unhalowed work of drugging with known poison her sons, and leaves a blight of woe upon the land, on widowhood and orphanage; when these and similar evils are known to exist, and are affecting our homes, disturbexist, and are affecting our homes, disturbing our social life, deranging educational in erest, and clouding over our altars of vorship, shall not the pulpit ound the alarm. Shall the ninister be called to the altar when drought and famine and pestilence prevail, but his roice be hushed in regard to moral evils. and famine and pestilence prevail, but his voice be hushed in regard to moral evils. Shall his lips be sealed when sin is chartered by the government. Sabbath breaking is legalized, and the sin of the government is moulding public opinion. Drunkenness is legalized, and under cars of law most of our crimes are committed. Polygamy is tolarated in this land, this Christian land, shall the State annul God's law of the Sabbath, and the minister not allowed to say. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. When grave statesmen are so appreciative of the sovereign of the people that they are ready to license one to put a thousand to death by intoxicating lirgs, it ought not be considered a trespass for a preacher to say. Thou shalt not kill. Or should Satan send some virtuous souls to the harem to cultivate the graces it would not surely be amiss for an authorsand of Jesus to quote gently in his ear, Thou shalt not commit adultery. The Pulpit has its sphere, and rises above all party to grace that Christian element in our political organization, which is the true life of our nation's power and glory. May the pulpit never become partisan or enter into unholy wedlock with the State. The speaker then spoke of the Geneva arbitration as evidence of the advance of Christian civilization, and

Soon other roads will be completed and these States shall be bound in and constitute one great confederacy by a threefold iron cord, which shall not easily be broken. These iron bands are sirens of concord, and these wire flashing over all the land and educating the earth with turkey and oysters as founds—the people to common aims and common interests, are becoming an isonomic agency,

Last night was appointed for the funeral rites of the Indianapolis Benevolent Society and the formal taking up of its work by the Young Men's Christian Association. This meeting was to have been held at the First Presbyterian Church, but a faithful few are gathering there found that no preparations had been made to receive them, and the meeting was accordingly postponed until next Monday night, when it is hoped the attendance will be larger.

The Thanksgiving fever permeated the hotels in an epidemic form, and proprietors balanced accounts with a dinner of mammoth proportions. The bill of fare at the Bates pronounced Wesley or his steward a walking lexicon of appetizing titles, and from ox tail soup down to cream nuts, the provisions comprised everything in the market Colonel Scott, Winchester, McCarty, Gray and the man of the Mason were also up to snuff, and where one excelled in one thing the other discounted him upon something else.

Collectively, and notwithstanding the epi-zootic, and the high price of wood, our citizens rejoiced and gave thanks, sending Thanksgiving Day, November, 1872, down upon the record not one whit behind those of past years.

LOOK TO THE SOUTHEAST as the best field for the advancement of property. FLETCHER AVENUE has just been graded and graveled, and so has FORSST AVENUE. HURON STREET is a fine, improved highway, all leading direct from the center to SPANN & CO.'S WOODLAWN LOTS. DILLON SIREET, a very important north and south thoroughfare, now being improved, lies immediately adjoining, west of this popular addition. Many houses are in process of erection in this part of the city, and as nearly all the lots are now occupied, except the Woodlawn lots, it requires no foreight to be sure that money will be made by buying lots here. They are sill cheap, and must advance they lie high, and many of them have beautiful native forest trees on them, the right size to leave for shade and beauty. They are selling rapidly. The great sewer in Fletcher avenue and south street affords perfect drainage for all this region, and the new bridge and tunnel over the railroad tracks afford perfect safety in passing from the center of the city. No objection can be made to these lots, and if any of our customers intend buying, they had better come at once, before the advance is put on. Parties having real estate for sale would do well to call and see us and leave it with us for sale. We are also agents for the sale of property all over the city and State. Kansas lands in any quantity and at low figures. We are the Agents for the sale of Kansas State, city, corporation and bridge bonds. Rent and collect rents all over the oity.

Rally on the Fire Engine. The epizootic has attacked the horses be onging to the Fire Department, and at ten 'clock to-day the No. 10's, 7's, 8's and 3's vere reported unfit for service, with slight ndications among some of the stock belongng to other companies. All of the disabled eels and engines have been provided with ropes, and the boys hope that the citizens will rally promptly upon an alarm signal and aid them in getting the machines to a ire. There should be no backwardness in this matter, and every able bodied man, whether merchant, city official or common day laborer, should hold himself ready to assist in this inevitable necessity.

City Finances.

There is no money in the City Treasury at present, as is learned from the City Clerk, and the demands for salary, etc., are now net by warrants drawing ten per cent. interst and redeemable on the first of March ext, at which time the collection of taxes vill commence, and there will be an inflow of currency into the treasury. The city wer nothing to any of the banks, but has a onded debt of $600,000; $40,000 of which is lue next month; $155,000 railway appropristions due in about seventeen years, leaving something like $400,000 to be provided for within two years, beside the sum first stated. Chis is not altogether a satisfactory financial howing, and establishes that there should peretrenchment in some quarters.

The City Treasurer is preparing his report and expects to present it at next meeting of

All of these were turned away-there was othing for them. The present destitution vill not compare with that one week hence n view of which does it not seem that somehing should be immediately done.

Last evening the thermometer suddenly ndicated biting cold weather, and at seven clock marked 7° below freezing point, which continued until at half-past seven this norning 1° below zero was chronicled. The veather is severe, for the sudden changes nake it the more intense, and considerable affering is experienced by those compelled o out-door business. Last year it was over ne week later before the same degree of cold vas reached. During December there were even days, besides three in January and hree in February that zero was reached, and t no time was the frost any more biting than t has been to-day. Some curiosity is ex pressed as to whether the present winter will vitness such remarkable change in temperaare as is recorded for the 23d of last Decem er. On that date, within 24 hours, there vas a change of 62°, besides which our citiens were astounned by a thunderstorm enirely out of season and mal apropos.

Epizootic.

The spread of the epidemic continues, and o-day there is hardly a well horse in the ity. Even the mules are contracting the lisease, and four cases are already reported inder treatment. One of Lieber's brewery porses died to-day; the two fine grays be; onging to the Sarven Wheel Company are lso reported under the sod, and the "dead nimal man" carted away six yesterday as ruit for his labor. Prices are going up, up ip! and in the matter of transportation lone incurs a frightful expense, and gives cople a realizing view of the value of the torse to humanity. Straw commands un easonable prices, and Sullivan to-day paid 88 and $9 for what could have been pur chased Saturday last for $2 50; milkmen are ogitating whether to stop delivery, put up he price or add more water; coal deliverers ere independent, big factory men gloomy and expressmen saucy. A few street cars are running, barely a few; hardly a hack is to be een; the horses upon the streets are scarce a fact there's no doubt but Indianapolis ha, ot her share of the epizootic, and is likely

The Great Hair Producer.

Hair oils, pomatums and pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the enemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of u.i. g them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick onguents, and thus betructing the insensible persuiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the ferti-izing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathiron. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetailve power. If he hair is dropping out or becoming dry and with ered, it arrest the process of diapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and fiexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of fashion
